services to including

- Tutoring - I offer support in almost every subject, from elementary school to university. I can even help you with your graduate thesis!
- Custom-curriculum plans – this is a great option for home-schooled students who want curriculum built, someone looking to refresh their skills, or someone studying to take an entrance exam for admission into a specific program.
- Navigating accessibility challenges – If you’re not sure if you have an accessibility challenge, I can help you navigate the system to find out! From there I can help you interpret your psychoeducational assessment, set up accommodations at school, and even build you custom test and study strategies!
- Career coaching – including assistance with resume and cover letters, job searches, interviews and more!
- Support applying to college or university – this includes finding the right program for you, the application itself, and help with scholarships!
- Organization, assignment, and test taking strategies - as a learning strategist, I’m an expert on how people learn. I’ll work with you to meet goals and deadlines, break down big projects into simplified steps, help you get your homework done faster, and even suggest new strategies for you along the way!

About me:

- Throughout my 10 year career in education, I’ve helped over 1000 students succeed academically
- I specialize in working with neurodiverse students and those with accessibility challenges, such as mood disorders like anxiety and depression, dyslexia, dyscalculia, autism spectrum disorder (ASD), ADD and ADHD, and more!
- I have a Master of Arts degree in Science & Technology Studies from York University and an Honours Bachelor of Arts & Sciences degree from the University of Guelph
- I’m currently working part-time as a professor at Georgian College and part-time at my own business as a Learning Strategist
- I’ve completed several undergraduate thesis centred around improving science-based pedagogy. I’ve even published my work on Enquiry-Based Learning, and presented it the University of Guelph and University of Western Ontario!

- So what is a Learning Strategiest? It means that I've studied how students learn and provide custom solutions for them based on psychoeducational assessments, my own intake process, and evidence-based adult learning methodologies.

Testimonials:

Madelaine Khan came into my daughter's life when she was in grade nine. My daughter has always struggled in school and this year was no exception. I was getting really concerned about my daughter's future because the years that are to come are important when deciding what post-secondary avenue she would like to take.

My daughter really struggles with generalized and social anxiety disorder. She has a really hard time opening up and connecting with people. I knew I needed someone that was skilled with learning challenges and that was compassionate. I heard about Madelaine by word of mouth and thought I would contact her for credentials and availability. Madelaine responded quickly. She was open about sharing her credentials and experience. She is very knowledgeable in the teaching trade and has an impressive schooling background.

She began working with my daughter and started by building a rapport with her. Unlike anyone else she was able to understand and speak to my daughter in a way that really made a connection. Madelaine works with my daughter two times a week. Her grades and confidence have made exceptional progress. Madelaine teaches to my daughter in a way that no one ever has. She was able to assess my daughter and develop a method of teaching that works for my daughter. She is teaching her how to advocate for herself. Madelaine not only helps with academics but provides life skills that are so essential. Madelaine is always calm and open minded. She is excellent at problem solving, she is flexible and always on time. Madelaine is absolutely amazing at what she does. I would highly recommend her to anyone looking for teaching services.

I'm so impressed with how my daughter has worked with you, and the progress she has made! I never have to remind her that she has a session with you, she is ready and willing. I can see that her self confidence has improved immensely, as she has made gains in understanding math that she never thought she would be able to grasp. She is talking about future goals and getting a part-time job. It's wonderful to see her feeling good about herself and her capabilities.

Hi Madelaine, I edited my resume based on your feedback and it gained so many interviews, and today I even got two job offers at the same time (so confusing haha). Just wanna say thank you so much, you're doing amazing, if I need any help in the future I'll definitely checkout!

I'm so happy for you, that is awesome!!!
Would you mind if I saved this comment as a review to show future clients?
